

From: simranjeet singh rai [\[mail\]](#)
Sent: Friday, 19 November 2010 12:30 AM
To: Kathleen Almond
Subject:

good morning, i m jag, one of the international student, writing in regard english competency to achieve the nursing registeration. my concern is that it should not be there, if we are studying hard to a culture and nursing care in that is totaly different and new to learn and even in new language then i think we are good enough for the profession. we need better communication to understand the needs for this profession instead of showing our skills in achieving that english competency, if we do have good communication and understanding the need of becoming a good nurse we do not need to pass this test which is more tough than passing nursing exams. moreover if this country is really in need of more nurses then it should not be implemented on us to get qualified nurses more quicker. thank you.