Hi Kathleen,

My name is Yatharth and I would like to contribute towards the consultation of english requirement for the registration purpose as a nurse and midwife. In my opinion, nursing board should accept the english test results of two sitting. as if students flunks in one subject while undertaking their course, they are allowed to re-do that very subject not the whole uni course, therefore, why can not nursing board allow someone who just has got half a band score short and get it right in the second time. This seems really unfair to me and should not be carried on. I hope you will take my opinion in account and raise this issue with other board members. Thank you

Kind regards,

Yatharth
