

From: satyajit gohil
Sent: Thursday, November 25, 2010 2:47 PM
To: Kathleen Almond
Subject: positive feed back for the new thought about nursing registration

Hi Kathleen,

In my point of view, if this rule will apply to all students who have studied here or any other English speaking countries they do not require IELTS or OET. It will be great if this rule will be implemented. In fact, students who have studied here in Australia have much better knowledge about their course, I mean they have good skills and knowledge about ANMC competencies. In addition to this, while they are doing their placements in hospitals they must have to show their ability in understanding for patient's condition and care plan and ongoing assessment also. If they are not eligible to pass that they will fail but if they will pass means they have abilities to work as RN in Australia.

So it is my strong recommendation to you (AHPRA) to pass this rule for graduates of Australia.

Thank you in advance and I will hope for the best and I will wait for the positive result in favour of all students to get registration without IELTS. It is really needed.

Kind regards,

Satyajit Gohil