Subject: regarding the english test regulation

I think this is a good idea. because we have been taught and assessed in english in australia for the entire 3 years which includes assignment, exam and clinical placement. To be able to register as a nurse, we have to pass all of them. so why we still need to pass an additional english test? is a kind of insult on the quality of tertiary education?
by the way, there is no such requirement for other english speaking countries if we study there entire 3 years bachelor of nursing.
